
Specification regret — what one specification costs against the best — is computed from the same surface and reported as a robustness check (Section 4.7).